ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Introduction

The Scottish Crannog Centre is a 5 Star heritage centre which features Scotland's only authentic recreation of an Iron Age loch-dwelling. Built by our underwater archaeologists, the thatched roundhouse on stilts is based directly on the results of our excavations in Loch Tay. Facilities include exhibition, gift shop, guided crannog tours, 'hands-on' ancient crafts and activity area, regular special events and rural craft skills workshops. We work closely with local and national organisations to promote awareness and enjoyment of Scotland's cultural and natural resources. The Centre has won several environmental awards, including the GoldStar Award for 'greenest visitor attraction in the UK'; the prestigious Gold Award from the Green Tourism Business Scheme for more than eleven consecutive years; a VIBES award and a Scottish National Business Award for environmental management.

The Scottish Crannog Centre's Green Code and Visitor Charter are prominently displayed on the premises and website and our commitment to green tourism is indicated by use of the environmental award logos.
